Something New.

I have an angel sister!
With pure unclouded brow,
Where never pain may linger,
Or sorrow furrow now;
I know the angels have her,
Am I her home is with the blest,
For she did seek Christ's favor,
And God hath given her rest

I have an angel sister!
I never had before!
We scarcely yet have missed her,
Her loss we scarce deplore,
It is a new and strangely bright
To think her spirit sifted,
To regions of immortal light
We cannot think her dead!

I have an angel sister!
I never had before!
And many impressions will linger
Of happy days of yore,
But yet for her I cannot sigh,
While others sigh and weep,
For death had not the victory
In her last dreamless sleep

I have an angel sister!
And so strangely sweet it seems
With thus watch over me in Heaven
Will thus visit me in dreams?
No answer back—no word to tell—
"Enough to know is given
Best spirits will their tasks fulfil
Mine be to trust in Heaven

Two Very Common Wishes.

WALKING with a friend the other day, who is ambitious of rising in the world and who can hardly wait for the ordinary course of human events to bring about the accomplishment of his purposes, he said, "I wish I knew what others think of me—what estimate people generally put upon my character and talents This knowledge would enable me to calculate with more exactness the probabilities of success At the imminent risk of wounding our friend's feelings—for he is extremely proud and sensitive, proud of his cultivation and sensitiveness is and sensitive to the slightest reflection upon his dignity and dignity—we told him that a very large majority of people had, in all likelihood never thought of him at all and that a considerable majority of those who were acquainted with him had never thought themselves to form any estimate of the chances of his ultimate promotion or of his relative rank in the world of mind Those who have weighed your character and talents, are most probably your rivals whose opinions would not be at all flattering to your vanity, or encouraging to your efforts The knowledge you desire would make you miserable—For instance, Mr A thinks that you overestimate your own abilities, and will eventually find it out to your mortification Mr B thinks that although you have energy and talent, you are pushing yourself too rapidly forward and will in consequence meet with a defeat which prudence would have avoided Mr C laughs at you in his sleeve while he pretends to value you very highly, and says to his wife that the conceited fellow has the impudence to think himself somebody Your friend D who calls to tell you how much your last argument at the bar was praised, whispers to his more intimate friends that every body laughed at the bombastic style of your speech, and that in his judgement your day will be a short one The young lady whom you tried to entertain the other evening said, as soon as you were away that "she wondered if you were foolish enough to suppose that she cared for your literary nonsense and extreme sentimentalities" And another one who sat by listening, had you were stiff and formal, and supposed that you had formulas for conversation, and that you had reduced the mysteries of love making to an equation of the second degree Even those who have become endeared to you by long acquaintance, sometimes speak lightly of you and your passing acquaintance charge you with the same want of principle and under handed dealing, which is so apparent in them "Would like to know what others think of you?" They think that, with all your pretensions with all your studying all your ambitions, all your accomplishments, you are not one whit better than any body else A few of your fast intimate friends think well of you, are proud of your success, and hope high hopes of your future career The opinion of those you already know of, may know; and if you heard the half of what other say, or were aware of the perfect indifference with which you are regarded by those whose opinion in many respects you are, you would hardly have the confidence you now possess It is well we do not know what others think of us, and it is better of the sane and independent enough of popular opinion to act as we believe, rightly without considering what others will think or say

Our friend acknowledged that of such remarks were made he should rather not listen to them, and that he should be very careful to avoid the society of those who had shown their lack of good sense and their want of appreciation of high motive and of honest effort by speaking disparagingly of him We assured him that it was no personal ill will towards him that prompted these doubtful compliments, but that they sprung simply because others could not see him as he appeared to himself, and wished him to go on and see as if he be agreed every one to be his friend, and never trouble himself with regard to the petit mots people are upon him, always taking care to observe the golden motto of Davy Crockett

Our friend wishing to change the subject for another, said that a few all he didn't care much what others thought but that he did wish he would look into futurity a few years It would be so pleasant to know how much one will accomplish and what will be his situation in ten years I really wish I could anticipate that period We were as much surprised at the folly of this wish as at his first, and we were to show him how great an injury this knowledge would be were it possible I would take away the greatest spring of effort and blot hope out of existence You feel now that every thing depends upon your individual exertions or of personal and national events keep you constant company and the hope of the good time coming cheers and lures around your path Would you cast from you know what are to be your disappointments and have no future for ten years? It is a wise degree of the Great Supreme that the future should always be a sealed book to us Day by day and unseen Fate turns over a leaf, and we may read the record of our yesterdays but never those of our to-morrows The position which we occupy in life ten years hence would be a giddy place for us to-day—the reverses we may meet with are that would embitter every intervening pleasure Truly this life is best as it is if we only know how to turn it to the best advantage and our most common wishes are thus complied with, would often prove our greatest calamities

The People's Press—Its Charges, &c.

Two or three weeks since, the People's Press, published at Skowhegan, made a declaration in editorial form, though the matter was probably hatched up in this city, by one or more of a baker's dozen, who claim to be Whigs and a quarter over, that a plan and a plot was or foot in this city, by which to injure the Whig party, do injustice to the Whig candidate for Governor, Mr. Crosby, and thus commit a great political wrong. In this connection we were referred to in such a manner as to give the impression that we knew all about it, if we were not, indeed the head and front of the whole matter.

We denied my knowledge of the matters so confidently charged, and for the purpose of testing the sincerity of the Press, and of squeezing out of it, if possible, a view of the secret springs by which it is moved we demanded the proofs. The next number of the Press had no word of explanation, nor any allusion to the matter. We again called for proofs, if it had them, to sustain its charges. Another number of the Press brings us a communication, written in this city, with an endorsement of the editor, that the writer is a Whig, whose knowledge exceeds that of the editor of the Press!

The cat's paw of the Press having thus dodged the matter and shown that he only raked chestnuts for a monkey in this city, we come to the Bangor article.

It assumes that any neighbor of ours could give us information with regard to the matter charged in the People's Press. Well if any neighbor could do it, of course this writer, who furnished the staple of the charge in the Press, can show it up at all its length and breadth and furnish proof strong as holy writ. He was bound to do this—to show the best hand possible, out of regard to his feeble friend of the Press, if for no other reason. How does he succeed? If he was in possession of facts he would, in a case like this, where a defiance was indirectly thrown in his teeth, array them in the strongest manner and make out his case beyond a peradventure. But instead of this he dallies by the way to show how merciful he is in not showing our ignorance on other matters, as well as on this subject of the Bangor inquiry to the Whig party, and having thus prepared the mind of his readers to expect a crushing conclusion, by showing how he would employ facts, if he only had them, he bolts the track and makes a grand splurge as to the state of affairs last September, the election of Mr Ingersoll as one of the Representatives of this city, the bad management of the Whig County Convention held last August, the fact that Mr. Ingersoll and the editor of the Whig acted together upon a Committee, and didn't disagree and hurt each other, and the present opinion of Mr. Ingersoll regarding the duty of the Legislature, and in locating a board of trade in Portland, hoping, probably, that this sort of matter will be received as proof of an "organized" movement here to bring evil upon the Whigs. Was ever a proclamation so broad and bold, followed by a war so utterly futile and imbecile?

In order that our readers may understand the true nature of this writer in the Press, and this representative of the Whigs and a quarter over, in this city, who, since August last, have shouted to the Whigs in Penobscot county, "stand by, for we are holier than thee," we extract the paragraph which contains what is offered as proof, including, as it does, the falsehood that we neglected to advocate the election of the Whig candidate for Governor. Here it is

"Let circumstances be examined to see if there is a coalition in Bangor organized and determined to defeat Gov. Crosby's re-election, to secure that of Mr Morrill. George W Ingersoll, Esq., was elected as Representative to the Legislature by the assistance of such men as Mr Sayward, and I would refer the doubting, if any such can be found, to the Whig's pulls on Mr Ingersoll about election time. This gentleman is a Morrill Locofoco—he has hitherto claimed to be a Whig. That he goes for Morrill for Governor and opposes Gov. Crosby he boldly and unblushingly avows. He is the head and front of this Coalition whose heart is in Portland, whence the word of command issues, and where some eminent members of this 'board of trade' reside. His great editorial views were not unknown to a few who were 'posted up,' even before election—though this might not have been known generally. Mr Sayward may deny this statement in toto, if he wishes to hazard such a denial, and deny all knowledge that quite a number of land speculators—of the grab sort—formerly Whigs, voted for Mr. Morrill openly at the September election, and now declare they will spend money in the Legislature to elect him! he may be ignorant of the basis agreed on before the Convention met that nominated Hiram Rugglos and Franklin Muzzy to represent the Whigs of Penobscot! and also of the reason assigned at Portland for having Mr. Ingersoll in the Legislature, and way such a general selling out was 'absolutely necessary!' Fearful memory, many are thy slips! Now from the tenor of the Whig's politics for the last year—from its associations—(Mr Sayward and Mr Ingersoll were on a County Committee together and were entirely harmonious)—from its neglecting to advocate the election of the regularly nominated Whig candidate or Governor—from its friendly glances towards Mr Morrill—leads me to infer that it favors the election of Mr Morrill, whatever its ignorance in relation to the scheme"

That paragraph contains the whole body and soul of all the writer could scrape together for the purpose of proving a grave charge made in a distant paper, against the Whigs of Bangor, of having organized for the purpose of bringing evil upon the Whig party, and proclaimed in the language of alarm! And what is the conclusion, not to the reader merely, but what the conclusion of even the writer himself? Why, simply this, that he was led to "infer," what? that an organization existed here among the Whigs to defeat the Whig party? No, not so much as that but simply this, that the Whig favors the election of Mr Morrill!

Let us look through the paragraph again, for the purpose of striking out its falsehoods

The Whig representative, G. W Ingersoll, is said to be a Locofoco. It needs no proof to show that this is a lie and a very foolish one.—Mr Ingersoll is a Whig, has always acted with the Whig party and continues to do so—was appointed to office as a Whig—was elected Representative as a Whig—is a member of the Whig County Committee, and goes to Augusta as a Whig.

Another falsehood is that we neglected to advocate the election of the Whig candidate for Governor. Our columns give the lie direct to this charge, and we venture to say that no paper in the State occupied greater space during the two campaigns in which Governor Crosby has been a candidate in advocacy of his claims than did this paper. Our readers need not we should do more on this point than refer to their own recollections and the papers on file We advocated his election by pen and voice, and we have twice given him our vote

These two falsehoods were woven into the paragraph to do yeoman service amidst the pickings, shreds and gossipings; and in taking them out there is not substance enough left to stand alone, and to strike at it would be as useless as a tilt against the aurora borealis!

If it were not a species of cruelty the paragraph might be robbed of even a portion of its coloring, in what is said about "land speculators of the grab sort, formerly Whigs." The writer has neither the ability nor the courage to point to a single person answering to this character. And also in abstracting what is said about the action of the Whig Convention under the term of "a general selling out"

But we will not be too critical. The charge made by the People's Press fails and falls. The thing is dead. The only use that can now be made of the paragraph as it stands, with its falsehoods and humbug, is to consider it as the political platform of that section or splinter of the Whig party in Maine known as "Whigs and a quarter over, and possessed of that aroma of hunkerism that hates a negro and loves rum—that preferred General Pierce to General Scott for President, and would delight in a trade for Pilsbury for Governor and against the Maine Law, while it damns one for Morrill and in favor of the Law

Viewed in the light of a platform this paragraph begins to move into shape. We see now the significant thrust at the Whig candidate for the United States Senate, and the motives which defeated his election last winter. We see the opposition against the Whig party proper in the denunciation of its action in a regular County Convention. We see the opposition to the Maine Law in the growling at the means taken to uphold that Law, against the pledge of the Locofoco candidate for Governor, given to his friends, as is stated, and as we believe, to oppose it. It is some consolation to get at this platform, and we have not published it in vain

We ought, perhaps, to add, that the People's Press at Skowhegan and the Commercial Advertiser at Rockland, two papers of little note, are the only papers in the State that have adopted this platform and upon they it undertake the task of regulating the Whig press and the Whig party in Maine!

The writer of the article in the People's Press assumes the name of "A Crosby Whig," but whether this is henceforth to be the name of those adopting this platform we are uncertain. The name is a great piece of injustice to our worthy Governor, for he is doubtless satisfied with being a Whig. If, however, there be a difference, and he is more or less than a consistent, straight forward Whig, we do not partake in any manner or amount with the variation.

We must now attend briefly to one or two matters backed on to the discussion. One is an intimation that we may be influenced by the hope of getting a township of timberland thro' the influence of Mr. Morrill. There is neither wit nor sarcasm in such a suggestion now, since, under the new law, townships are not sold as formerly, even if we were in "actual operation" This intended hit is abortive, as there is no possible chance for its consummation, even if desired by both parties. The allusion, however, shows the kind of warfare which would be waged had the writer the ability. This is the character of the fair field before us, and which, taken in connection with the three or four different ways in which he has spelt out name, would justify any amount of personality on our part, and in which it would be easy to indulge, since we cannot mistake as to the author. He is known like a book, and only needs to be generally known to be appreciated and shunned

We remarked, not long since, in reference to the action of the Legislature and the projects of political leaders, that under circumstances such as we then supposed might exist, the question arose whether the Whigs could afford to take the offices this year. This remark has greatly excited the writer in the People's Press, this "Crosby Whig."

The late election campaign was marked at an early day by an opposition to the Maine Law of such a character as to demand of the friends of that Law a special effort in its behalf. The mass of the Whig party, almost the entire Free Soil party and the democratic portion of the Locofoco party were in favor of the Maine Law and very desirous of sustaining it. In order to do so, although each party had its own candidates for Governor, they united upon candidates for Senators, and in the election, in many cases, of Representatives

In this way the regular candidate of the Wild Cat Democracy was defeated, and his friends passed in a minority in the legislature

In the support of the Maine Law, and in the election of Senators and Representatives, we may say as a general and comprehensive term, that the Whigs, Free Soilers, and Maine Law Democrats were friendly allies, as against Mr. Pilsbury and his opposition to the Maine Law. The result is that neither party has the majority in the legislature. Shall the State be organized? Yes. But how? This is a significant question, demanding a practical answer. It is certain that if effected at all it must be by compromise and concession. There is no other method. We are perfectly willing to leave the result with the legislature when they come together, but we are called upon as a political editor, to make some sign regarding the future

Well! looking to the welfare of the State, we advise to an early organization of the government. Looking to the welfare of the people, we advise to the sustaining of the Maine Law. Looking to the future interests and welfare of the whig party, we advise to honorable and fair dealing on the part of Whig Representatives with their allies at the annual election. If this course involves the election of Mr. Morrill or Mr Hobson as Governor, let it be so.—We should regret to lose Governor Crosby, but we hold him not superior, but subordinate to the success and welfare of the State, the people and the Whig party, and that too, sightfully and without the slightest disparagement to him in any way. We even hold that he should so regard the matter himself.

But it may be urged that if the whigs will only consent to abandon their allies—prove treacherous and faithless and thus disaffect them, the Wild cats will promise to give them votes enough to elect all their candidates, and if not promise all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them, they will give them the control of the State. Perhaps so. But if they would promise and even give all the offices of the State, for this year, and the matter depend upon our action alone, we say most distinctly and emphatically, that we would not prove faithless to our allies. This is no new view with us, but one upon which we have acted from the start. It does not wholly grow out of moral and temperance considerations, but out of the soundest political and party considerations and can be vindicated upon political grounds alone, and is consistent with the strictest fidelity to the whig party in the State. To furnish the whig allies with a necessity for dissatisfaction would shut out all hopes of success to the whigs, since it would throw the future political power of the State into the hands of the wild cat locos, even if they kept their promises for this year, a violation of which treacherous and false whigs could not well complain. For the whig representatives to falter and kick back upon their allies as anti-Pilsbury men, would be the most fatal selling out of position and influence, and character and credit, of which they could possibly be guilty. For the Wild Cat leaders to get them to do this for the gift of the offices this year, would be the best trade they ever made, as it would prevent the whigs from ever again acting in conjunction with other parties opposed to the present leaders of the Wild cat locos, and give to these leaders the full control of the State in its offices, and its legislation

In our judgment it is worth something to the whig party to prevent this certain rule of the Wild cats in Maine, even if they cannot have the disposal of all the offices. Indeed if the disposal of the offices is all the difference there is in parties, as some seem to suppose, then there is no need of the many making a great fuss for the benefit of the few. But if, on the contrary, good and wise legislation, and a prudent and wholesome government are what the whigs require, these they can secure by proving true and faithful to their anti-Pilsbury allies, and which of course, we hope they will do for their own sake, and the sake of the whig party

Arrangements have been made for a grand festival of the Alumni of the Bangor High School, at the Bangor House, on Tuesday evening next. This school was established between eighteen and nineteen years since, and so large a number have graduated and gone out into the active world to take part in its movements, that a gathering of them, and a gathering of its intellectual forces in person, and by letter cannot but be highly interesting and useful

We learn that on this occasion the alumni will take with them their jewels in the company and companionship of ladies. This is a good movement and will add new graces and charms to the festival. It is a popular thing and about fifty ladies have already accepted invitations and given assurance of being present. The members of the Alumni Association will be out in large numbers, and we learn that the Superintending School Committee of 1835 are among the invited guests and others who have taken a special interest in the welfare of the school,—its honorary members and a limited number of others. A delegation from the Alumni in Boston, chosen at a public meeting, there, will be present, and letters have been received from most of the Alumni, who are now scattered in different States and countries.—These letters will afford a rich treat to the company.

This reunion will be one of the most attractive affairs of the season, and will prove the happy influence which the High School has exerted, and the good it has accomplished. It will serve, we doubt not, to awaken a new interest in the success of the school, and will encourage its highly valued and efficient teacher who has labored with so much zeal and success, to go forward with his work in the assurance that he will continue to find a reward and a solace in the confidence and esteem of the matured minds of his pupils

We certainly wish the association the happiest results from their organization, and the highest enjoyment in their well arranged festival

☞ We would refer the reader to the notice of our neighbor John Ayer, to be found in another column, of his choice stock of fur goods, which are now in high repute, are exceedingly fashionable and much sought for by the ladies. Mr Ayer has a taste for elegant goods, and he understands exactly how to please our good people.

☞ The National Era, the central organ of anti slavery in Washington, it is said, will commence daily issues after the 2d of January next.

☞ The "Old Folks" of the Billings and Holden Society will have a sing at the dwelling of John S. Ayer, Esq., on Pine street, on this evening

☞ The Poems of James Russell Lowell have just been published in London for a shilling.

☞ We are under obligations to Hon. Ismel Washburn, Jr., for a copy of the Patent office Report on agriculture.

Instead of having no festivals, we have need of more in a poverty stricken calendar. The days will not be jealous of each other. Who ever heard of a fight between Monday and Tuesday? For current time will divide itself into eras—days marked by a white stone, anniversaries of joy or sorrow—which we will at least secretly cherish as they pass by. Human nature knows its own wants, and the recognition of birth-days is founded in its holiest and best laws, and if a wicked utilitarianism should erase the Golden Letters, abrogate feasts and untwine the festive garlands from the happiest of them all, the very act would constitute a bad anniversary.

"The Glory of Man and the Graceful Ornament of Woman."

☞ What is there more glorious or more beautiful than to see a rich luxuriant head of hair on either man or woman? And when those rich tresses on woman begin to decay by disease, how important that we have so effective a preventive or cure! There are a thousand different preparations brought into use, purporting to prevent hair from falling off, or causing a new growth when the head has become bald, but all of little or no use, and very often injuring the diseased roots more than doing them good. But there IS an article which has recently been discovered in New York, which WILL prevent Hair from falling out, and is guaranteed to produce a good growth of Hair on heads that have become bald. We have one case in Boston of an elderly lady who has used it and who is willing to certify to the truth of the above. And to induce people to try it, the General Agent of New England offers for a reasonable sum, to guarantee a good head of Hair to any one who will try it thoroughly, in three months time, or no charge for the article. Now, come one, come all, it costs you nothing to try it! The preparation is called HURD'S HAIR RESTORER. Read the following certificate from a gentleman well known in this city, as well as New York

NEW YORK, Dec 2, 1853.

Mr Hurd—Dear Sir—I have been bald for the past five years, and as my father's and grandfather's family were bald at an early age, it was considered hereditary, and thought impossible to produce new hair on my head and indeed every thing failed, until I was induced to use your Hair Restorer. I commenced using it about six weeks ago, and where my hair was then bald it is now covered with a vigorous growth of new hair, and there is no doubt it will produce hair on any bald head

New and Elegant Goods.

We dropped in at Fenno & Hale's store at 24 Main street, the other day, attracted by the splendid display of elegant articles from the outside and found a corresponding richness within. Their stock comprises all branches of the watch clock, jewelry silver ware, and ornamental business combined. In jewelry they have many very fine specimens from the most costly to the more moderate in price. They have a beautiful and finely executed variety of Parian statuettes, busts and vases, which attracts particular attention, and an endless display of card trays, &c &c. In fact they have a perfect museum of gems in all kinds of elegant articles together with toys for Young America, and their establishment is just the place where the "democracy of numbers" can procure all sorts of things suitable for Christmas and New Year Gifts to all ages and both sexes.

THE GREATEST

MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE!

MR KENNEDY of Roxbury has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures EVERY KIND OF HUMOR from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple! He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humors) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston

Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face

Two or three bottles will clear the system of flies

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of erysipelas

One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humors in the eyes

Two bottles are warranted to cure ringworm of the ears and blotches among the hair

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers

One bottle will cure scald heads, ulcerations of the skin

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate cases of rheumatism

Three or four bottles are warranted to cure the salt rheum

Five to eight bottles will cure the very worst case of scrofula

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken

Nothing looks so improbable to those who have in vain tried all the wonderful medicines of the day as that a common weed, growing on the pastures, and along old stone walls should cure every humor in the system yet it is now a fixed fact If you have a humor it has to start There are no ifs nor ands, humbugs nor humbug about it, nothing sham or sham, but pure I peddled over a thousand bottles of it in the vicinity of Boston I know the effects of it in every case It has already done some of the greatest cures ever done in Massachusetts I gave it to children a year old, to old people of sixty I have seen poor puny worm looking children whose flesh was soft and flabby restored to a perfect state of health by one bottle

To those who are subject to a sick headache one bottle will always cure it It gives great relief in catarrh and dizziness Some who have taken it have been costive for years and have been regulated by it Where the body is sound it works quite easy but where there is any derangement of the functions of nature, it will cause very singular feelings but you must not be alarmed—they always disappear in from four days to a week There is never a bad result from it—on the contrary when that feeling is gone you will feel yourself like a new person I heard some of the most extravagant encomiums of it that ever man listened to

TESTIMONIALS

The following certificate from Dr John C Warren of Boston was given 17 years since but will last forever

Boston Jan 5 1853

Having had occasion to observe that some persons afflicted with Hernia have suffered much from the want of a skilful workman in accommodating Trusses to the circumstances of their cases I have at their requests called upon Mr J F Foster to supply the deficiency occasioned by the death of Mr Beath—After some months of observation I find his work I am well satisfied that Mr Foster is well acquainted with the manufacture of these instruments and I can with confidence recommend him to my professional brethren and to the public as a workman well fitted to supply their wants in regard to these important articles

JOHN C WARREN M D

The undersigned take great pleasure in recommending to the favorable notice of the sick and unhappily afflicted with hernia Mr James Frederick Foster, as a skillful and competent person in the manufacture and fitting of Trusses We have employed him (some of us for twenty years) and therefore speak from personal knowledge of his abilities His early advantages have been greater than those of the most of his competitors with all the business and the experience of a lifetime he has relieved in a variety of cases which have baffled others and his Trusses are superior to any manufactured in this city

DR. MORSE'S Invigorating Cordial,

A ..... Phenomenon in Medicine.

Health Restored & Life Lightened by Dr. Morse's Invigorating Elixer, or Cordial.

For centuries Medical science has been ransacking the vegetable and mineral kingdoms in search of something that should restore the lost or decaying energies of the nervous and muscular systems with all the drawback of subsequent prostration, which all stimulants and invigorates had heretofore entailed—That something has been found. This vegetable production, brought from the secluded deserts of Africa the Story by the celebrated Professor Morse well known as a distinguished member of the leading scientific societies of the Old world and equally distinguished as a physician a chemist and a traveller The juices of this herb concentrated and combined with other vegetable medicinal extracts, are now producing results heretofore unheard of, in this or any other country At first the powers attributed to Dr MORSE'S INVIGORATING ELIXER OR CORDIAL were deemed fabulous The public often deceived could not believe the simple and sublime truths announced by the discoverer But facts, undeniable facts attested by witnesses of the highest class and character, are now triumphing over all doubts Incredulity is overthrown by a mass of testimony which is perfectly irresistible

The ELIXER is imperial in all cases the deep table evils arising from a misuse or abuse of the various functions which make up the wonderful machine called man It restores to full vigor every delicate function connected with that mystery of life, procreative agency, and mind necessary to the reproduction of human life. For cases of feeble muscular frame or debilitated nervous power Cordial is recommended as the only means of permanent relief which is necessary to the proper enjoyment of all the natural appetites as well as the mental attributes Its beneficial effects are not confined to old age or to youth The feeble girl the sinking wife the listless or jaded youth the over worn man of business the victim of nervous depression in the midst of their glorious mental activity or from the weakness of a single or an early and immediate and permanent relief from some of the sad consequences of premature or excessive indulgence in the sexual appetite, the hard and giddy path of dissipation, the hard and giddy path of dissipation, the hard and giddy path of dissipation
